

Scleral contact lenses in normal corneas: is it possible to improve visual performance?

Lentes de contato esclerais para córneas normais: é possível melhorar o desempenho visual?

Cristina Cagliari , Paulo Schor

Cagliari C, Schor P. Scleral contact lenses in normal corneas: is it possible to improve visual performance? Rev Bras Oftalmol. 2026;85:e0025.

doi:
<https://doi.org/10.37039/1982.8551.20260025>

Supplementary Material 1. Validated texts from the Department of Speech Therapy of the authors' institution.

TEXT 1

It was a different Saturday. Many children were waiting in line to be seen. As soon as she got there, Lara began to hear a chorus of cries. She got worried. From the room she was supposed to come in, some children came out sobbing, although others seemed calm. Lara heard her name being called and came in. There was a jar of strawberry lollipops on the table. The nurse was giving one to each child. Lara rolled up her sleeve and held her mother's hand tightly. Her eyes closed and two tears rolled down her cheeks. But after feeling just a little pinch, she began to feel better.

TEXT 2

The sun was already setting when Felipe decided to go into the woods. Without wanting to be seen, he gradually distanced himself from the camping site. Night had already hidden the familiar trail. But Felipe, feeling confident, kept walking. Suddenly... a noise could be heard. It came from the dry leaves on the ground. Terrified, Felipe thought, 'It sounds like something is crawling!'

The boy was looking for his flashlight in the backpack when something wrapped around his leg. 'No, it can't be a...' Disturbed, he kept looking for something to light up the woods. That's when he noticed that something was slipping out of his backpack... a rope! 'Phew!' After regaining confidence, the boy decided to keep walking. But the noise started again soon after. This time, the more he tried to get away, the more he heard it. It sounded like something was stepping on the leaves, chasing him. This time, darkness and fear petrified him.

After a while, still paralyzed, Felipe began to hear it again, a noise that gradually increased. A light, growing stronger, was also approaching. He soon recognized the voice of his friends. Smiling, Felipe thought, 'I'm so glad you found me!' When lighting up the place, they saw a long branch clinging to Felipe's clothes. Wherever he went, he dragged the dry leaves on the ground.

- Wow, we finally found you! Don't you know that the dark woods are very dangerous? What did you want to say with that?

After all, Felipe learned a lesson.